2d. They are invariably soldiers, and possess few facilities for learning anything reliable concerning reled designs or movements.

The statements made, however, concurred in representing that three brigades had been sent by Bragg to Jackson. Johnston, in the neighborhood of Jackson, was calling vigorously for troops; the President of the Confederacy promised the retainers at Vicksburg 160,000 men if they would hold the city fifcago Air Line train at Kokomo, on Wednesday, for Chicago, under the charge of a mediany, for Chicago, under the charge of a mediany for Chicago, under the charge of the charg cal codet. It the facts are as stated to us and given nbove, some explanation is due from the Chicago outhorities for the army was placed under marching orders. tion is due from the Chicago authorities, for their seeming neglect.

The army was placed under marching orders and it was jubilant over the propect of something active. The time specified for the movement to begin found it still quiet. Speculation was rife; the anxiety increased; the newspapers failed to instruct as to the probable turn affairs would take; and in painful suspense we awaited developments. Orders again came, and all that came of them was a reconnoissance by the 19th Illinois in the direction of Hoover's Gap. Heavy skirmishing ensued, which last-arrived at the Gap, and that a Georgia rement of incunted infantry lay a short distance this side. It was reported by the citizens in the vicinity that the enemy had strengthened nll his outposts. This advance of troops in licates either a desire to engage our attention and cover the passage of troops southward, or bridge over Dix River, burned by the rebels an attempt to draw us out and toll us forward

Saxon has been acres of land, the proceeds of which will also go to feed the rebel armies.

If the conscription at the North furnishes men who will battle as bravely and serve as faithfully as do the men now in the field, the days of the Confederacy are numbered. It is impossible for the South to recruit her armies be to the neglect of her agricultural and manufacturing interests, which, disregarded, removes the prop which supports her.

On Monday morning last, C. L. Vallandigham was delivered to the enemy. He was accompanied by Maj. Wiles, Provost Marshal, Capt. Goodwin, his Assistant, Col. McKibhen, and Lieut.-Col. Ducnt. In conversation on the way out to the lines he was very talkange.

the way out to the lines, he was very talkative, and explained fully and clearly his views on the war, and his scheme for restoring the Union. He avowed himself as firm and unswerving a Union man as any in America. He opposed the prosecution of the war in the honest earnest helief that the attempt to coerce abloody and devastating war would prove unavailing. He did not believe in the efficacy of war as a means of settling disputes between the sections, allied and related as the North and South are. He looked upon war as calculated to embitter the antagonism existing between the sections. between the sections, and estrange the people of the South so thoroughly as to render the restoration of the Union almost an impossibility. He said that in exile he would not be heard lifting his voice or his arm againt the Federal Union. One of the gentlemen necompanying him remarked that the arbitrament of war hed hear above. of war had been chosen by the Sonth; that the had given the Government but one alternative: that of testing the question of dismemberment by war, or of passively permitting the Union to crumble. The Government had chosen war, and the The Government had chosen war, and the nation sustained the choice. He thea asked: "While the country is thus pouring ont its blood and treasure, exhausting its resources of both in the struggle for life, is it prudent to tolerate expressions and entreaties on the part of men opposed to war, calculated to weaken the arm of the Government by disheartening tho people, discrediting the Government finances, and inveighing against the policy of the Administration? All of these results his speeches and acts conduced to. Was his ar-speeches and acts conduced to. Was his arrest, then, not justifiable?

Vallsndigham replied that he understood the war to be prosecuted in vindication of the free principles of the Constitution; that those principles had been violated in his arrest; and that the Constitution itself failed to command respect. If the war sacrificed our liberties as threntened to do, it was not worthy of support. If it was to be prosecuted in disregard of the rights guaranteed by it to citizens, and discussion repressed, then his arrest was prudent add justifiable.

These patches of conversation I relate more as indicative of the designs and feelings of the man, by which he purposes to regulate his conduct South, and from which he expresses conduct South, and from which he expresses his determination not to swerve. Vallandigham was accordingly driven be-yond the videttes, and, in proximity to the robel pickets, delivered to a single cavalry-mnn, to whom he said, calling at the same time Capt. We are informed that Mr. W. C. Birchett and Mr. E. P. They were permitted to proceed to their points of destination, and were arrested whilst on their re-turn. They are charged with being spies; and, it is said, the Confederates speak of re-taining them in confinement during the war. We suspect their troubles grow ont of the fact that Mr. Birchett, who made a similar visit to Huntsville, Ala., last month, evaded the Confederate pickets on his way back, after having been detained and refused a pass to Nashville. FASHION.-Fashion ist he conservator of society throughout the civilized world. It regulates the habits, customs, and deportment of patrician and plebeian-peer and parvenu. Barrington quaintly but truthfully remarks in his "Sketches" that 'dres has a corresponding influence upon address." When the dress is coarse, careless, and begrimed-the beard unshaven, the hair unkempt, and the hat "shocking bad," the effect produced is coarse conversation, careless habits, and unpolished deportment. A well-dressed person is disposed to the genteel and gravitates to the polite; for it would be vastly inconsisten: with the attire to be otherwise, no matter how coarse the natural instruct may be.

Society in general tolerates the well-dress person and repudiates the contrary, no matter whether the latter be the result of studied eecentricity or weakness of habit. But there is a vest distinction between the male dandy and the gentleman, equally so between the female dandy and the lady, so far as dress is concerned. Fashion, in the exercise of arbitrary power, regulates the temporary custom of dress, and all submit to the exaction as a necessity Our special desputches from Washing- of social law. TERRIBLE Acctaent-Several Persons K.l. ed .- About half-past five o'clock last evening the two-story brick building formerly occupicd by Duffield & Co., on Sixth street, between Main and the river, but lately used as a grain arehouse by the Governmeat, fell in with an awful crash, burying beneath its ruins several persons employed in storing away grain at the time of the catastrophe. The wall on the outside first gave way, suddenly, and the upper story and roof was precipitated imme liately in one great pile of bricks and timbers. About thirty persons, as near as could be ascertaized ia the confusion and excitement last night, were at work iaside the building when it fell, and it is supposed that about half of themfifteen ia number-escaped through the back part of the wareroom, which was left standing. The rest are supposed to bave perished. At the time we write only four have been found. Oae, a Captain, who was in the cellar, was aken out uninjured; two others were taken from the ruised mass already deal, and another, named Padly Miles, was discovered in a mangled condition, and only lived two or three hours after being extricated from his unfort mate situation. No more have Leen found, and of course all those not yet | Micholasville, Ky. The location is said to be reached and buried under the fallen building are dead. It was impossible to obtain any reliable particulars last night owing to the confusion prevailing. Nearly all those who escaped fiel perfectly paaie stricken and could not be found, and these that were found and questioned on the subject could not tell how many were probably killed.

Since writing the above, we learn that ore of the men taken out was named John O'Neal, a member of the Twenty-eighth Keatucky, but discharged about last Christmas, He leaves a wife and five children. A womaa aad child so perished, and the child was found a corpse. woman, the mother of the dead child, has not been found. At the time of the accident she was pumping water at the corner of the building, on Sixth street, hence was unfortunately lost under the fated house when it fell.

Col. Richard T. Jacob reached our ci y yesterday, temporarily on business connected with his command, which is now at Columbis, Adair county. He looks the bronzed soldier, but is in the enjoyment of excellent health, although the flinty couch of war has very frequently of late been his lot. As he passed through Lebanon on Moaday, it being court day, his friends insisted upon a speech, and, although he had been nearly continuously in the saddle since Saturday night, he managed to speak about an hour, and poured his shot as hot and fast iato the home secessionists as he had done three weeks previously into the rebels in arms on the Cumberland.

PRINCETON, KY., May 27, 1803. To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: GETTLEMEN: I would like, through the me ium of your valuable paper, to expose some f the practical workings of the "permit sys-m" in this region, with the hope that it may ave some influence in causing the proper autock of goods; arriving at Louisville, was old, not by the Surveyor, but by aeveral reminent merchants who were anxious to ell, that there was no possible chance of ship sing to my town. I weat up to Cincianati moduced satisfactory proof of my loyalty, bu e had positive orders not to permit any good p the Camberland, but could permit them t mithland if I would get Mr. Thoraberry Smithland if I would get Mr. Thoraberry a (Surveyor at Paducah) special permission to skip to that point. I telegraphed to Mr. T., and received permission to ship a limited amount of goods to Smithland. Arriving at Smithland, I found that there were goods there for Rateliffe & Garrett, of our town, both uncompromising Union mea (the former having last fall heen compelled to remain survey from lingue for several months to main sway from hoase for several moaths avoid being murdered for a free expression piaion), and was told by the surveyor, I oel, that they had been there for two week and that his orders were imperative not-allow any goods to be shipped up the Cum berland, and regretted exceedingly (knowin me to be a standfast Union man) that his du compelled him to have my goods taken off, submitted quietly because I am always willin to be governed "by the powers that be." B filer, here comes a merchant of Eddyville, miles from our town, 45 miles up the Co without the slightest difficulty—our good till in Smithland—subjecting us to the enor mous exacuse of reshipping, losing the sal of the goods that will soon be out of season pesides net knowing when they will enter into the details because I know by dear experience that they are facts whice cannot be denied, and now ask: Why is that Mr. James Lester (who is by the by good Union man) can ship goods from Lou ville to Eddyville (even powder, iead, and shot), and we cannot ship further than Smithland, and there have our goods stopped, an kept for an indefiuite length of time? It can't be that he had stronger letters recommendation than we have, and why su partiality is shown is a mystery to me, beside an outraged community who are depending upon the loyal merchants for necessary sup continue to hope and believe that it will be Very respectfully, J. When thus surrounded, a severe fight took place. Several brilliant bayonet charges were made under the direction of Lieut. Colonel Holman, and the rebels, who attempted frereaper. The writer has used the attachment and considers it a perfect success; it will supersede the book in all level lands, and must prove well adapted to Iowa use. In Kentucky, some of her best hemp lands lie so rolling and rough as to perhaps preclade its use. If the crop is to be cut with the book, the operator is required to cut at one through a width corresponding to the length of the hemp and as close to the cropud as nearly sible spreading his hemping. quently to capture the one piece of artillery of the 24th Indiana battery, which Jacobs hal to the ground as possible, spreading his hemp in his rear in an even, smooth swath, where it reomitted by e-reless growers, and some contend without injury. The citizen now sues the Marshal for $500 damages for arresting him and for the pistol. Last Saturday the defendant moved that he bepermitted to transfer the case from the Marian mitted to transfer the case from the Marion Circuit Court to the U. S. District Court at Louisville. T. Shuck & Woods, and C. S. Hill are attorneys for defendant. I will report the case.

There is the importance connected with the case. At the time of the arrest companies ing as with grain—the object being to keep the crop secure and dry until the proper time for rotting arrives; in the latitude of Kendew; the whole crop is then removed from the rick and rebuiled back on the same ground on which it grew, there to be spread in thin swaths for rotting, where it remains without turning until properly rotted. This is indi-cated by the fibre freely parting from the stalk, and the dissolution by the action of the ele-ments of the peculiar substance that causes it Arkansas, expresses the opinion that the ene-ury have abandoned Arkansas altogether, and and it is easily acquired hy any one the least observant. When the operator finds his hemp sufficiently rotted, the wooden hook is again brought into requisition for drawing once more the swaths in convenient hunches. once more the swaths in convenient hunches. The hemp will have lost much of its weight, and can be bunched and shocked with less labor than at first, hesides, at this last shocking, the binding is to be omitted entire; the hemp is to be carefully and neatly handled, all tangling to be avoided, and placed again in neat shocks and firmly bound at the top. Then comes the last and crowning operation, the breaking and dressing the fibre or lint for the market. The peculiar brake to be used, like The peculiar brake to be used, like the knife or hook for cutting, needs no description; they are manufactured in the money by ordering a sample brake, from which any earpenter can manufacture as de-sired. The crop is broken in this climate directly from the shock in the open field by the removal of the brake from shock to shock as first as broken. In Iowa, owing to the severity of the climate, it would probably he necessary to remove the rotted hemp to the barn, where the labor of breaking could be more certainly performed. The coldest and clearest weather of dampness in the atmosphere suspends this of dampness in the atmosphere suspends this latter intogether. The breaking process is laborious, yet more depends ou the skill than the strength of the laborer.

I have endeavored to describe the whole process as practised by the best growers in kentucky. The same mode will certainly apply to Iowa up to the rotting process. With her advantages, steeping in soft water is entirely practicable, by which sho will produce an article of water-rotted hemp perhaps in no respect inferior to the highest priced Russian, which is fully double the value of American dew-rotted, the only sort produced in this State. The writer is apprehensive that the seasons are too short in Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Iowa for the successful growth of seed—a defect ensily remedied by the purchase of seeds grown in more Southern latitudes, but not the shadow of a double exists in his mind. not the shadow of a doubt exists in his mind that they can, at the very first effort, produce better hemp than any territory South. Time, he thinks, will demonstrate that Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin compose the true hemp region of the American coutinent.
